1. The Course: Its Purpose and Prerequisites. Economics 311, along with 310 (Microeconomics), are the basic "intermediate" courses that are taken after the "principles" courses, 201 and 202. Only 201 is a prerequisite for 311, or alternatively a score of “5” on the AP test for macroeconomics. Please note: neither 202 nor 310 is a prerequisite for 311.

2. Relation to Economics 201. While overlapping Econ 201 in the first two weeks, Economics 311 develops a more complete model of economic activity and applies it to an explanation of the relationships among inflation, unemployment, real output growth, money, the federal budget, the foreign exchange rate, the trade deficit, and other central economic concepts. The course includes reading items and classroom discussion of current macroeconomic controversies and issues.

3. Required Reading. In the first day class a representative from the publisher will explain everything you need to know about prices and the different options you have to buy the textbook. See also the publisher’s insert on the last page of this syllabus. In addition there is a Course Packet of outside readings, see below.

4. Advice. If you don’t understand a particular point in the lecture, wave your hand and ask me to explain it again. Or come up and ask during the break or after class. The role of the TAs is to handle all your questions involving the electronic homework, equations, solutions, quizzes, midterms, and final. The best way to ask a question about the lecture (which the TAs do not attend) or aspects of economic news that interests you, come to talk to me after class. You can also have a more extended discussion in my office.
hours.

5. The midterms and finals are split roughly in half between multiple-choice questions and short answer questions that require you to calculate specific numerical answers. The multiple-choice questions cover not only the material in the textbook but also aspects of macroeconomics discussed in the lectures and course packet but not covered in the textbook. The midterms and final are given in the same classroom where the lectures take place.

6. The data charts in the lectures are all updated from those in the book. All graphs discussed in the lectures update the data to December, 2019, and will be posted on Canvas soon after the lecture takes place.

7. Requirements.

a. MyEconLab (MEL) homework assignments, 10 percent of your grade.

b. FRED data exercises, to be handed out in class and turned in to TAs, 6 percent of your grade.

c. Short Quizzes (5). In TA sections on the dates indicated on the schedule. Quizzes count for 20 percent of grade. Your lowest quiz grade is automatically dropped in computing your total quiz score.

e. Final. Friday, 20 March, 9-11am. Counts 32 percent of grade.

Laptops must be closed and smart phones put away during lectures. All exams are closed book; you should bring a calculator to all quizzes and exams. Any kind of calculator is allowed as long as it has a “LN” button.
Text: Robert J. Gordon, Macroeconomics, 12th edition, Pearson. Purchase instructions are provided on the last page of this syllabus and will be demonstrated in the first class on Jan 6.
