

EconLab Opportunity for 2024-25: RA for Tim Seida

Title: Research Assistant

Openings: One

Project Description:

The Economics Department at Northwestern University seeks a research assistant for a project studying how distress in the banking system propagates through the financial system to the lending activities of non-bank lenders (“shadow banks”).

Position Description:

The project is in the data collection, data merging, and preliminary analysis phase. The research assistant will be working with novel data on shadow banking activities as well as canonical banking and mortgage datasets.

Application Requirements:

Interested applicants should reach out to tim.seida@kellogg.northwestern.edu. Please include a resume, an unofficial transcript, and a brief paragraph describing your interest in this project/position. For further information, please contact Tim directly.